Cobden on Mexico.—The following interesting letter, giving the views of the late Richard Cobden on the French expedition to Mexico, is published in late London papers. It was written in May 1864, more than a year ago, to a French gentleman in Switzerland:

My Dear —— : In your last letter you speak unfavorably of the prospects of the Northern party in America. You do not know that country. I traveled through that country in 1836, and again in 1859 and have been a very careful student of all that has been passing there. I ought to know that country as well as anybody. Nothing, in my mind is more certain in the future than that the North will destroy slavery, ruin the slave owners and hold possession of the South. The mistake that people fall into in Europe when they expect the success of the South is that they lose sight of the inherent weakness of a slave owning community, owing to the want of that mechanical development which constitutes the great power of modern society, as compared with former ages. Georgia, or Mississippi, or Alabama, are not modern communities in their organization and resources. They are a succession of plantations on which slaves do all the work, and containing within themselves all the different occupations, such as carpenters, smiths and coopers, and which form distinct trades in free civilized States. In fact, Georgia and Mississippi are in the same state as Western Europe was in the fourteenth century. Georgia and Mississippi, each nearly as large as England, contain each only half a million of inhabitants, being less populous than England was in the time of the Saxons. Those whites are surrounded by nearly an equal number of slaves, who are ready to run away from their masters whenever Federal armies approach. Thus, added to the want of mechanical resources and the absence of accumulated wealth and population in towns, the South sees the negro, on whom it depends for the rude cultivation of the soil, deserting its plantations to enlist in the ranks of the invading armies. It is true that the Southern whites fight well. They are a proud, haughty community, who have a contempt for Northern industry and Northern men, just as all aristocrats have despised working men. They are more reckless of life, more accustomed to the use of arms, and have that Southern dash and fire which make them almost irresistible for a time. But nothing can compensate for the disadvantages under which they labor. Nothing can make a community, living like the feudal community of the thirteenth century, a match for New England population of the nineteenth century. The North will ruin the South not by any one or half dozen decisive battles, but by its persistence and by the irresistible weight of its resources. And I should not be surprised to see the South collapse very suddenly, for having no social force at its back, when once it is fairly beaten in the field it has nothing to fall back upon. If the North should realize my expectations it will present itself before the Old World in a new and most formidable attitude, for it will have proved itself as great in war as in peace. It is the only country in the world which, while it is a first class naval power (for its mercantile tonnage is equal to our own) can keep 700,000 men in the field. Has your Emperor thought of all this in connection with his Mexican expedition? I confess I saw with amazement, as well as regret, the course he took in sending an army to interfere in the internal affairs of that wretched country. It reminded me, in its impolicy, of the expedition of the first Napoleon from Bayonne into Spain. No human being can restore Mexico to order, or confer on it the blessing of civilized progress. It requires the hand of God to effect such a change in that degraded population of half castes. But does the Emperor know how deeply this public sentiment of the United States is outraged and humiliated by this attempt of a foreign Power to set up an Empire at their door without consulting with them? How would Frenchmen like to see the Yankees sending an army to establish a Republic in Belgium without consulting you? Seeing the American newspapers regularly, I gather from them that the resentment against you for the Mexican intervention is ready to burst forth the moment the rebellion is in a sure way of defeat. The Americans will have some serious controversies with England, but they are of a nature to keep and employ the ingenuity of diplomatists. But I look for a peremptory demand from Washington for explanations from the Tuileries, which will lead to war or humiliation. I sincerely wish the Emperor would withdraw every French soldier immediately. * * *

RICHARD COBDEN

Ridiculous Expose of the Davenport Brothers at Paris.—It has been left for the Parisians to make a public expose of the "Davenport Brothers," whose wonderful performances" as spiritual mediums have been so long imposed on the public. "Malakoff," the Paris correspondent of the Times, tells the story in his letter of September 15th:

The fiasco of the Brothers Davenport is the talk of the town. Never was fiasco more complete, more terrible. For more than a year these famous American mediums have been filling the columns of the London papers with the details of their astounding feats, until all the intelligent and reading world of Paris was in a fever to see them. The field was therefore prepared and the harvest waited to be gathered. But the police authorities, which have for a hundred daily work for the last few years by the unclean population which here indulges in somnambulists, and spirit-rapping tricks, [illegible] for a long time to give the Brothers Davenport an authorization to exhibit, and it was only by a distribution of persons of influence, anxious to test the truth of the question, that the Prefect of Police at last consented. In the meantime the Davenports had rented a chateau in the neighborhood of the city, and were there giving private exhibitions for which no license was required. At one of these private exhibitions M. Robin, a famous exhibitor of tricks, established permanently on the Boulevards, managed to gain admission, and discovered and afterward described in the Paris journals the whole process of evoking spirits step by step. This description accorded so logically and so truthfully with what had been observed of the movements of the Davenports that the public mind was pretty well prepared for the denouement which was coming. On Tuesday evening last, the first public seance was announced to take place at the Salle Herz. The price of admission was fixed for the whole performance at twenty francs, and at this exorbitant price the rush to obtain places was so great that as many people were turned away as obtained seats. M. Henri de Pene, the well known journalist, the Count de Clary, also well known to the public, and an engineer, M. Duchenier, selected by the other two, were chosen to ascend the platform to the Davenport Brothers, and to watch at a close distance the proceedings. It was M. Duchenier who discovered the secret of the whole of their astounding performance. A straight stick is passed under the knees of the two brothers, their bodies are bent forward, and their arms passed around and under the stick, and in this position they are so firmly tied as to admit of no movement whatever. The doors of the box are then shut, and the extraordinary movements take place which so astounds every one—the throwing about and playing upon of instruments, the changing of coats and sticking out of hands. Feeling certain that the trick was in the tying, and that the brothers made the manifestations with their own hands, M. Duchenier approached one of them, and, pushing on the middle of the stick between the knees, the stick bent, the cords dropped off, and one of the Davenports was free to commence his [illegible]. The great secret of the amazing spirit [illegible] of these [illegible] of mediums lies therefore in the [illegible] the middle of the straight stick which holds the cords. They could loosen and [illegible] [illegible] the audience [illegible] fiasco and their confederate Fay [illegible] every trick for which they have become famous, and with which they have gained in England and America a fortune! They had come to the land of Voltaire and Robert Houdin to be found out.

When this discovery was made a rush took place for the platform and the audience was converted at once into an excited yelling and screaming mob. The Davenports fearing personal violence rushed out of the house, and the police had to take possession of the place and evacuated it, but not till the commissary had compelled the treasurer to render back to the audience their money. And thus ended the first and long looked for attempt at the exhibition of spirits by the two most noted adepts in the art.

Secretary Stanton.—The vituperation that has been poured out against Secretary Stanton has been powerless against the unqualified tributes of endorsement freely rendered by Abraham Lincoln, Lieutenant General Scott, Lieutenant General Grant, and other men most cognizant of his public services, and best qualified to judge it. All memory of this abuse will soon pass away, and the very names of those who vented it will rot and perish. Among the many towering reputations made by this war few of any are composed of more enduring elements than the reputation of Edwin M. Stanton. Their steadfastness, the tireless industry, the Spartan integrity, the gigantic grasp of the Secretary of War in the time of the Great Rebellion will be remembered to the last day of the Republic.

The Chinese washmen of Virginia City have organized a Protection Society against being swindled by the "outside barbarians." John declares he "no washee paper collar fo' Melican man and give him linen collar back."

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 9, 1865

Across the Pacific

The Pacific ocean, hitherto seldom crossed except by sailing vessels, is shortly to have two lines of steamships driving across its waters, directly joining the rich and populous countries of Asia and the East Indies with the western shore of the new world. Besides the monthly line of steamers soon to be placed by our Government on the route from San Francisco to China, still another to run between Panama and Wellington, New Zealand, has been projected by British capitalists. The company owning this line have contracted with the home and colonial governments to keep four steamers running between the points above named. The cost of the enterprise is fixed at $500,000 per year. The time of making the passage of 7,200 miles, is estimated at twenty five days. The company already has one steamer ready for immediate service, but she is much smaller and less powerful than those of the American line. Between the two lines there will probably be much rivalry. The advantage however is immensely in favor of the American enterprise. This will clearly appear if we take into consideration the commercial facilities that each will enjoy.

The Australasian trade will be controlled by the British line, but as an offset to this, we shall have the vastly greater and richer traffic of China and Japan. The inhabitants of the islands, including Australia, are few in number compared with those who will be brought into direct commercial intercourse with us by means of our steamship line across the ocean. Many of the most valuable commodities which the world affords, are produced by the people who dwell upon the borders of the China sea. The silk, tea and cotton which seek a market from that densely populated region, make it certain that this country will come into possession of a great trade from beyond the Pacific, as soon as the mail steamship line commences its work. Steam communication between China and San Francisco will cause our country to realize more forcibly than ever the necessity of a Pacific railroad. That the construction of the great railroad will be hastened by the increase of trade which will be offered to our Eastern cities by means of a steamship line from this coast to China, at once appears evident. New York will interest herself in building the road, and in return for the outlay she makes, will become the commercial emporium of the world.

Commerce is shortly to begin a new era. The Suez canal in the East and direct trade with the West from the most populous countries of the globe, together with the completion of that grand enterprise, a Pacific railroad, will effect wonderful changes in the commercial status of the principal cities of the world. London, the present center of the world's trade may lose its proud position, and at some future day be classed along with cities which cannot now now pretend to be its rivals.

PUT TO A STAND.—By far the larger number of the professional politicians of the country, are members of the "Democratic" party. These are the men who are continually sacrificing the "principles" they profess to hold, to their notions of political expediency. Party success, and through this means, personal advancement are the sole objects of their seeking. Though they are usually very fertile in resources and rarely unable to decide what course to pursue, (for it makes no sort of difference with them whether their political conduct has the merit of consistency or not,) they are now, for once, completely nonplussed. They can't agree as to the policy which should be adopted at the present time in relation to the questions that await solution. Long habit, natural inclination and old associations still incline them toward the unprogressive doctrines which the war whipped, or should have whipped out of them. But they know very well they can never win by the advocacy of old issues. Furthermore they see little hope for immediate success in the adoption of any new expedient which artfulness can devise. This state of things poses them. It is impossible, it seems, for them to understand the President. At one time they are quite up to the point of endorsing him as a model "Democrat." At another, his patriotic course, so wholly different from their hopes, puts them to a stand and causes them to withhold their words of approbation. Thus it is that they find themselves in an unusual dilemma. Being at an utter loss how to proceed, they can only wait for the development of some issue upon which they can unite—of course to be beaten as usual. It is altogether impossible to conjecture on what side of any of the now existing questions we shall next find them. So great is their present confusion—so completely are they at a loss to know what to do, that many of them are shrinking back into silence and obscurity, while the remainder are perpetrating blunder on blunder in every move they make. The servile and supple "Democratic" politicians will hardly find their way at once out of the political labyrinth through which they are wandering.

POLK COUNTY.—The Union men of Polk County have nominated Isaac Smith, Esq., of Bridgeport precinct for representative, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Capt. Lafollett. The Convention endorsed the Administration of President Johnson, pronounced in favor of sustaining the national legal tender currency, passed a resolution against negro suffrage, and denied the right of unpardoned rebels to vote in Oregon.

The Review, fearing defeat, advises its party friends to name no candidate for the Legislature in Polk County. This is a good idea. The Democracy will save themselves a deal of trouble by declining to nominate candidates in loyal communities, as they will always surely be beaten.

It having come to the knowledge of Secretary Welles that a custom prevailed in some of the Navy Yards of assessing a fifteen per cent. tax on the wages of the workmen for political purposes an order was at once issued peremptorily forbidding a continuance of the practice. This is a good order, and one which will prevent the money of honest men from going into the pockets of political swindlers.

GEORGE N. SANDERS.—This notorious individual has found a place and an office at last. It appears that the former Postmaster at Davenport, Canada West, has been deposed and the versatile George appointed in his stead. The Canadians we think, will find it a hard task to provide places of emolument for all the rebel "bummers" who are among them.

THE CHOLERA.—A dispatch which we publish this morning announces that several cases of cholera had occurred on board the ship Atlanta from Europe, lying at the New York quarantine. We are unable to say what port this vessel comes from or to what line she belongs.

Mr. Wilbur, Indian Agent at Yakima, is now engaged in collecting the scattered bands of Indians within his district for the purpose of taking them to the Simcoe valley.

Richard Ralston, recently wounded in a shooting affray at Idaho City, died a few days ago while a limb was being amputated.

POPULATION OF UTAH.—Utah is said to contain 90,000 inhabitants. The territorial area comprises 100,000 square miles. Great Salt Lake City contains 18,000 inhabitants. The plat of the city is three miles square, and is divided into blocks of 10 acres each. Each block is divided into eight lots. The balance of the area is taken up by streets. The territory is divided into 20 counties. There are several towns of 5,000 population and upwards.

DATES TO NOVEMBER 6.

The Ketcham Forger.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—E. B. Ketcham was arraigned in the Court of General Sessions before Recorder Hoffman to-day. He withdrew the plea of not guilty on the indictment for forgery in the third degree, and put in a plea of guilty. It was agreed that his sentence be suspended until he could be examined in the [illegible] now before the courts.

Heavy Gales on the Southern Coast—The Fenian Congress.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—[illegible] Philadelphia from Key West [illegible] gale [illegible] 22d [illegible] ashore in the harbor.

A number of the members of the Fenian Senate continued their session to-day. The proceedings were secret, but it was reported that agents were to be sent to Ireland at once to organize for the great revolution, which it is believed will take a practical shape in a short time. It is stated that the Fenians have received the endorsement of officials in this country, which it is believed will lend not only strength to the movement, but will be the guarantee of its success.

It is said that offers are being made to effect the release of John Mitchell, in order that he may take an active part in the approaching Celtic insurrection.

It is reported that Hampton Roads will be the rendezvous for a large and important fleet of our naval vessels. The steamers [illegible] and [illegible], which arrived there on Saturday, are the pioneers of the maritime gathering at that point. It is said the vessels are to be dispatched to squadrons in different parts of the world.

Slavery Abolished in Georgia—The Secession Ordinance Repealed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Post's Washington special dispatch says: The President to-day received advices that the Georgia State Convention had declared slavery abolished, by an unanimous vote and without debate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Post has received a telegram from Herschel V. Johnson, dated Milledgeville, Ga., the 31st, saying: All is going well. The Convention passed an ordinance repealing the ordinance of secession, and all ordinances and resolutions subversive of or antagonistic to the civil and military authorities of the United States adopted by the people of Georgia in Convention, between the 16th of January and 24th of March, 1861.

Fire in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The two large shoe factories of John Dart & Co., in South Boston, were burned on Tuesday. A [illegible] loss about one million dollars. Insurance for a small amount.

European News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Files by the steamer Africa have been received.

In regard to the Adams and Russell correspondence the London News says: [illegible] the claims made by Spain against the American Government, under all the circumstances [illegible] by treaty, while those made by [illegible] for a century [illegible] Portugal [illegible] bound to keep [illegible] States will [illegible] Russell's refusal [illegible] not settle the [illegible].

Wilmer & Smith's European Times says: It is just possible that the [illegible] we may lose by putting out of position on a principle unmistakable [illegible] and when the Americans are neutral and we the belligerents to suffer terribly in person and pocket. [illegible] of this business [illegible] in future [illegible] turned against us in ways that are hitherto unimaginable.

The Star says: Russell is anxious to save [illegible] the justice of the claims on account of the Alabama. We trust no British statesman will fall into the blunder of placing our commerce at the mercy of deep raiders who may issue from neutral ports during some fourth future war. Earl Russell deserves all credit for his sincerity in endeavoring to quiet the [illegible] of Adams by quoting what his grandfather said and did fifty years ago, but at the same time security to commerce at the present day is a subject of greater importance to the people of England.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The City of Boston from Liverpool on 18th, and Queenstown 19th, has arrived.

Lord Palmerston had been seriously ill from the effects of a cold for several days. He died at half past nine on the morning of the 18th. Business on the Stock Exchange and in other quarters was suspended, and universal regret was expressed by all parties at his death. Earl Russell will probably succeed him. Lord Clarendon taking the Foreign Office—but nothing officially had transpired.

FARTHER POINT, Nov. 1.—The Damascus from Liverpool has arrived.

It is generally understood that Earl Russell will accept the Premiership.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The London Times of the 18th says: "We are sure that our Government may depend upon the support of the nation in maintaining the position it has taken up. If the American Government is determined to seek a quarrel with us, we can [illegible] our rights are clear [illegible] we shall have saved ourselves by the firm stand we are now making, from great [illegible] and have vindicated for the benefit of all mankind that neutral position so seldom occupied by Great Britain in the wars of the past, and so often, we trust, to be hers in the wars of the future."

The Paris correspondent of the London Post says: "The political [illegible] and the public generally read with great interest the published correspondence between the Cabinets at Washington and London. Most men [illegible] would grow out of the demand [illegible] American Government, but think England will make some concession in one way or another for the damage done by the Southern cruisers."

That is the French view of the existing difficulties.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The London Times says: Arguing will be very difficult [illegible] new Parliament [illegible] complications have arisen that may tend to avoid the termination of [illegible] and the Administration has been called to [illegible].

The News says: "No liberal ministry [illegible] but Gladstone. Any [illegible] but there is no question as to who shall lead the Commons."

Lord Palmerston was to be buried quite privately at Ramsey on the 2[illegible] The Journals continue to lament his loss.

The News also says that the reported [illegible] from Seward to the French [illegible] has dwindled to a statement that Seward has written to Bigelow expressing his earnest desire that the Governments shall remain at peace, but intimating that he feared Congress will [illegible] and extreme measures [illegible] Mexico."

The Patrie says Bigelow [illegible] in France [illegible] important since [illegible].

The Times thinks that should Russell fail in forming a ministry [illegible] between the different sections of the Liberals will [illegible] probably be the person under whom the greatest number of [illegible] will serve.

Parisian medical [illegible] Napoleon [illegible] Hotel Dieu [illegible] self [illegible].

Garibaldi [illegible] Government offer [illegible].

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—A double team belonging to Dr. B[illegible] ran away on Bush street to-day and collided with one of the street cars, completely demolishing one side of the car. The passengers, of whom there were quite a number, were thrown to the floor of the car. As soon as possible the passengers were extricated from the ruins of the car. One of them was a lady whose husband has a [illegible] No. 318 Washington street, was found to have suffered a severe fracture of the left thigh and received some painful contusions about the head. Mrs. Bradley had her wrists somewhat injured. The driver of the team was thrown upon the top of the horses by the shock, but not injured. Neither driver nor conductor of the car were injured at all.

Gen. John A. Sutter, the most prominent of the first American citizens, takes his departure from the State for the first time in twenty six years in the steamer that sails for Panama on Friday next.

The new steam tug boat Hercules made several trips around the Bay yesterday and everything worked admirably—with 65 pounds of steam she made 82 revolutions per minute and attains a speed of 10 miles an hour against tide and wind. She commenced business to-day by towing the ship Nonpareil to sea.

Portland Commercial Academy.

THIS INSTITUTION will be open for the reception of Students on Tuesday evening, Nov. 7th, 1865, at 7 o'clock, in Parrish's Brick Building, Corner Front and Washington streets.

THE SCIENCE OF BOOK KEEPING

So much neglected, and yet of so much importance, that a thorough knowledge of it should be acquired by all, especially those intending to follow mercantile pursuits, will be taught by J. H. Hall, well known to some of the business men of Portland as a practical Book keeper and correct Accountant.

INSTRUCTION IN PENMANSHIP,

An art which, once mastered, will be a letter of recommendation of great value to its possessor, will be given by W. H. Shaw, whose proficiency in this branch is well known by many in this city, and specimens of whose writing can be seen by calling at the Academy.

Our Monitors in Mormon[illegible]. — The Douglas [illegible] of October 28th has an article in which it is shown or attempted to be shown how the Indian war of 1853 commenced in Utah territory and that it sprung out of a massacre by Mormons. The following is an extract:

[illegible] the Utah war [illegible] Bowman [illegible] [illegible] Walker [illegible] was [illegible] Walker) and [illegible] the Mormons [illegible] through Great Salt Lake city and several [illegible] faithful who [illegible] themselves [illegible] While on tour [illegible] south end of Salt Creek [illegible] was unavailing. During the day their [illegible] headquarters [illegible] the Mormons [illegible] messengers return [illegible] to their places.

[illegible] played upon him [illegible] Walker [illegible] their [illegible] When [illegible] camp [illegible] men were found he was [illegible] of his train [illegible] "killed by Indians." The teams were [illegible] and driven to Salt Lake City [illegible] the clerk [illegible] what particular [illegible] they were favored.

On [illegible] the Ute chief Walker called together the tribes and [illegible] council of war, he determining first to [illegible] and punish the Indians who had committed the murder. He resorted to every stratagem but could neither find their property among the Indians nor any evidence that could connect them. When he had been satisfied of their innocence [illegible] of his tribe stepped forward and revealed the secret. He testified to being in the vicinity of the canyon when the murder took place and saw [illegible] dressed up to look like Indians but they did not ride like Indians. He saw them enter the canyon, heard the firing and saw them return in the direction of Manti. Upon hearing this Walker was more confirmed in his opinion. He then went to the Bishop of Manti and demanded that the stage [illegible] be taken. If the Indian character [illegible] met with nothing save abuse for his pains. He bid the Bishop beware [illegible] of the calumny was not removed he would "wipe it out in blood." He returned to his subordinate chiefs and after a general consultation, war was declared.

Thus originated the war of 1853 and the unfortunate men whose property had excited the cupidity that led to it were buried in the ill fated canyon that was made the scene of their horrible butchery.

Indian troubles are again rife south. How shall we account for them this time? Has some fresh crime been perpetrated? Or do the Indians still intend revenge for the imputation cast upon them of being the sole perpetrators of the Bowman massacre and the still more revolting one of the Mountain Meadows?

The New Fleet of War Sloops. — Whatever can be said about the invulnerability of our iron clads, their immeasurable superiority over vessels of any other class for attack or defense, experience has taught our Government that they cannot be made serviceable for cruisers.

Among the large fleet of new vessels of war in course of construction at the close of the rebellion were 17 first-class steam sloops of war designed for cruising, and intended to combine great speed with strength to withstand the severest tests to which ordinary sea going vessels can be subjected. Those ships are all contracted for, several are launched, and the remainder are on the stocks. Those that have been launched thus far are said to be remarkable for their fine lines and clean models. It is claimed that they are every characteristic of fast sailers. The following is a list of the new fleet: Antietam, Guerriere, Illinois, Java, Kewaydin, Manitou, Minnetonka, Ontario, Pushmataha, twenty gun screw sloops of 3,200 tons each. Ammonoosuc, Kenosha, Madawaska, Tahgayuta, Wampanoag, Mosholu, Neshaminy, Wanalosett, eight gun screw sloops of 3,200 tons each.

Rhett. — A Washington dispatch of October 6th says:

Among the watch and wait company at the White House for the past three days was R. Barnwell Rhett. Rhett finally got an audience with the President and with an assumption of great importance proffered his advice to Johnson as to the policy that should be pursued toward the South, etc. Rhett then visited the Freedmen's Bureau, and stated to Gen. Howard that his family had some negroes, several hundred in all, in Alabama for whom he wanted an order of transportation, that they might be brought at Government expense to South Carolina, where it appears these negroes belong and whence they were hurried by their owners when General Sherman arrived in Savannah and was threatening the liberation of slaves under military occupation. Rhett made this absurd demand in such an arrogant, independent manner, that General Howard was compelled to order a guard to eject the offender, but Rhett vamosed before the order could be executed.

Where Beef is Cheap. — A Texas letter-writer says:

Any man in this State who does not own four hundred head of cattle and seventy or a hundred horses and mules is worse than worthless. Beef sells here at five cents per pound, horses and mules from fifteen to thirty dollars for round lots, and are within two hundred and fifty miles of a good market. As far as the eye can reach in every direction, and as far as you may go the country is alive with stock. The whole market of the United States might be supplied here, and there would not be any apparent decrease.

A volunteer writing from Arizona, says of the Indians: "They have been quiet since the soldiers came here, and will probably remain so as long as the forces remain in the neighborhood. It costs Uncle Sam $100,000 for every Indian killed."

No Disease Without a Remedy. — A kind Providence has placed at the disposal of His intelligent creatures all the remedies requisite for the relief of such diseases as He permits to afflict mankind. Among the gravest in this category are those of the breast and lungs. A thorough and patient investigation into the character and treatment of these affections [illegible] by the more intelligent of the [illegible] of Newell's Pulmonary Syrup [illegible] health. Consumptives try it.

After the Harvest.

The blossoming Summer is over,
  The hill sides no longer are red
With billowy stretches of clover,

No longer the vernal adorning
  Of woodland and meadow is yet
With dewdrops impearling the morning

The orchards no longer are whitened
  With petals snow-tinted and fresh,
The fragrance that then has brightened

No longer the [illegible]
  In pastures [illegible] the hills
Nor crimson their faces with cherries

No longer the harvests all golden,
  With sunbeams of northern mood,
The hearts of the reapers embolden

No longer the rivalling flushes
  Of sunsets empurpling the West
Gild apples with deepening blushes

No longer the woods with their banners
  Deep tinted with yellow and red,
Build temples for warbling hosannahs.

The dead leaves above us are sighing,
  Around in a wearisome rain
The dead leaves are fitfully flying

We see in the garden, the change
  Heralding the winter to come,
Our Father so wisely arranges

The world in its bustle of beauty,
  Betokens the death of the year,
And whispers a lesson of duty

It whispers of Time in its flying,
  Fast spreading the Winter of life
The sorrow and anguish of dying!

It whispers of Fall to be gathered
  In granaries waiting above,
Ere all the wild tempests are weathered

How wise is the Spring time of gladness
  And Summer of blossoming hopes,
To watch for the Autumn of sadness!

To sow for a harvest of glory,
  Which, gathered and garnered, shall bless
The Winter so dreary and hoary!

Thrice happy the pilgrim who never
  Forgets the great lesson of Time,
But lives for the coming Forever!

The History of the Great Rebellion.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5, 1865

* * * * During the last Congress a resolution was passed directing the Secretary of War to cause to be collected and printed in proper form all the papers and documents of every description, of any historic character, having been collected in his department from the fall of 1860 to the close of the civil war. This Congressional mandate will be faithfully acted upon, and will result, in due course of time, in the fullest possible military history of the rebellion. Of course the compilation will embody only loyal material.

To carry this undertaking through in a creditable manner will require the continuous labors of a number of compilers for several years. The public can form no idea of the vastness of the material already piled away and still pouring into the War Department in a steady stream. In a number of rooms the walls are covered from floor to ceiling with shelves, cases and boxes, in which the vast accumulations are stored away. Of course a large portion of these records consist of irrelevant matter not required for the military history. To separate the "wheat from the chaff" will be a most tedious, protracted process. The magnitude of the task of getting the essential matter ready for publication may be inferred from the fact that it is the intention to print every dispatch, every order, every letter, every report, from Generals commanding down to the commanders of the smallest bodies. Of course it is impossible at this time to estimate the number of volumes to which the work will swell. I would not be surprised if it exceeded fifty large ones. The sub reports of General McClellan's peninsular campaign alone are said to contain matter enough to fill a dozen. The work of collating has been progressing for some months, but so far only the matter relating to the events of the first six months of 1861 has been put into shape. The first volumes will probably be printed during the coming winter.

As I stated, this proposed official military history will be as full as it can be made with the material within the reach of the War Department. But there are indications that the material relating to some of the most interesting episodes, even at its command, will be very incomplete. There are said to be, for instance, embarrassing gaps, in the sub-reports of General Pope's Virginia campaign. And there is ground for apprehension that the sub-reports of Gen. Grant's Virginia campaign will be very defective. The succession of great events during the progress of its most remarkable operations was so rapid, from May until August all the commanders were so continually occupied with marching and moving and fighting their troops, that they had no time to make reports until the army was fairly settled in the trenches around Petersburg. Moreover the many changes from the casualties of battle or other causes, that occurred in the course of the campaign among division, brigade and regimental commanders, proved an all but fatal drawback to the preservation of the official record of certain parts of the army. It was only last fall that the sub-commanders were called upon by General Meade for reports to cover all their share in the summer's mighty work. Then, with the constant crowding of impressions, their memories had been subjected to for months, and with the loss in frequent cases of records, it was natural they should find themselves unable to state even what had occurred under their personal observation, with fullness and precision.

As is generally known the Government, besides the preparation of its own historical material for the use of the public, is also engaged in the collation of all the rebel military records that fell into its hands with the surrender of the rebel armies and the general collapse of the Confederacy. The superintendent of this work, Prof. Leiber, possesses all the conscientiousness and thoroughness for which German scholars are noted. No better selection could have been made by Secretary Stanton. He will well fulfill this important trust. The systematic arrangement in chronological order of the rebel archives, however, will occupy many months, if not a year or two. The work is still in its first stages, owing principally to the want of suitable quarters for the distribution and storing away of the immense quantity of matter. In a few [illegible] this obstacle will be removed by the completion of the preparations now making in Ford's Theatre for its reception. But a portion of the hundred of boxes forwarded to the War Department by officers from all parts of the Confederacy have been opened. Until the contents of all have been examined, the task of arranging and cataloguing them cannot, of course, be commenced.

Upon the whole, it will not be the fault of the Government if every act and every scene of the rebellion shall not be fully explained, illustrated and understood in due course of time. To the above should be added, that engineer officers have been detailed for a re-survey of our own and the rebel works at the most decisive points of the theater of war, and that the results of their labors will be embodied in the official military history.

From what I have stated in the foregoing concerning the sources of information as to the history of the rebellion, to be opened in the future, it will be seen that the historians who will make use of them are much more likely to be accurate narrators and commentators than those who, by prematurely hurrying out book after book, show more solicitude for pecuniary profits than for conscientious vindication of history.

GENERAL SHERMAN ON HISTORY.—We find the following little contribution to history by General Sherman in a letter from Lawrenceburg (Ind.) September 27th:

Senator Sherman called the General's attention to an article in Harper's Monthly for October on "Fighting Joe Hooker," in which among other things, it is said that the choice of the President for the position of commander of the Army of the Tennessee, made vacant by the death of McPherson, was General Hooker, but that General Howard was appointed because Sherman telegraphed that unless that was done he (Sherman) would resign. "Not a word of truth in it," said the General, "I simply telegraphed to Washington that it was necessary to assign a commander for that army and I nominated General Howard. The reply was that General Howard's nomination was confirmed. That's all there was about it. The President had nothing to do with it one way or the other. Hooker's name wasn't mentioned. I have read the article in the magazine, and so far as it speaks of me in any way it's a work of the brain, just as much as Homer's Iliad."

That is very characteristic of General Sherman, very comprehensive, and we trust entirely satisfactory to all parties concerned.

Judah P. Benjamin, the late rebel Secretary, has been for many years separated from his wife, who lives in Paris. He is not a friend of womankind, it is said. The Chicago Republican understands that he is on his way to Australia, to practice in the criminal courts.

Western journals, we notice, are once more talking of manufacturing molasses from corn. The St. Louis Democrat asserts that from a bushel of corn three gallons of molasses can be extracted!

A negro woman, who was baptized at Huntsville, Alabama, a short time since, came forth from the water shouting: "Freed from slavery, freed from sin, bless God and General Grant!"

THE GOVERNOR ELECT OF MISSISSIPPI.—The New York Herald of October 7th, has the following:

The latest news from Mississippi indicates that Judge Fisher, the nominee for Governor of the reconstruction Convention of that State has been defeated. His successful competitor is said to be General Benjamin G. Humphreys. This individual is not merely one of the militia Generals of which Mississippi and all the Southwestern States are so prolific, but a bona fide rebel General. He tried to be a regular United States Army officer, but while a cadet at West Point in 1827 he was court martialed and dismissed [illegible].

General Humphreys is a resident of Sunflower county, (Miss.), but was some years since a Senator in the State Legislature from Claiborne county. In the days of the Whig party he was an old line Whig. Since it has become fashionable among Southern gentlemen to declare that at the beginning of the war they were devoted Unionists who fought secession until compelled to fight for it, General Humphreys has laid claim to such a character and his friends now say, we know not how truly, that he was a firm Unionist in 1861. Be this as it may, we know that very soon after the fatal firing on Sumter Humphreys had raised and was commanding a rebel company known as the "Sunflower Guard." His friends seem to think that his sudden abandonment of his own principles and adoption of those of his friends and State was a great virtue, and one of the papers of Mississippi advocating his election lately said: "Gen. Humphreys was a Union man, and opposed secession, but when the State would try to get out, and war was made on her people to keep them in, he took off his coat and went in to help his hasty neighbors."

Since General Lee set the example of fighting against his own principles because his friends were going to do so, this sort of cheap virtue has been much in vogue among our Southern brethren.

The Sunflower Guard became a part of the Twenty-first Mississippi rebel infantry, and Captain Humphreys became Colonel. His regiment was ordered to Richmond, and took part in the seven days' battles on the Chickahominy and in the second battle of Manassas, was at Harper's Ferry and Antietam and the retreat which followed. Humphreys served with the regiment during the winter of 1862-63 being engaged at Fredericksburg, and subsequently at Chancellorsville. He also participated in the campaign in Pennsylvania, and, during the battle of Gettysburg he succeeded the older Barksdale in command of his brigade. He was promoted shortly after (August 12th, 1863) to the rank of Brigadier General Confederate States Army. He was engaged in this capacity at Chickamauga, whither he had been sent with Longstreet's First Corps to the aid of Bragg; took part in the unsuccessful sieges of Chattanooga and Knoxville, ran away from East Tennessee to be in time at the Wilderness and Spottsylvania Court house. He was sent after the investment of Petersburg to operate in the valley with Early. In the engagement of October 19th 1864 he was wounded in the chest, and in the December following he went home to recover from his wound. He was yet at home when the surrender of Lee to Grant took place.

SLIDE FOR LIFE.—Some time since some young men residing in Kane county, in this territory, were at Maxwell's ranch on a bit of a spree. One of them becoming a little "how came you so," unknown to his comrades, started for home about five miles distant, over a near route, by an Indian foot trail, as it was some fifteen or twenty miles around by the horse trail. When he came to the "precipice" he discovered that the trail led down a tree top, and being a little "moon blind" he concluded that it could not be the route, and undertook to search for a new one. He slid down several precipices varying from five to fifteen feet, up which he could not again climb, and at length found himself at the head of another precipice of about fifty feet, with a bed of sand as steep as sand could lie for 300 feet below him. To return was impossible, to go ahead was his only chance. He finished the contents of his bottle, took off his coat, wrapped himself in it, coiled up in a heap like a sloth and rolled off. About five hours afterwards he came to his senses, lying in a creek below, minus his coat and hat and so thoroughly bruised that it took him several hours to creep to the nearest habitation—some two miles distant. He was considerably injured, probably for the remainder of his days, but it has thoroughly cured him of intoxicating indulgencies. His comrades hunted for him two days, and gave him up for lost before they found out what had become of him.—Salt Lake Telegraph.

OVERLAND TELEGRAPH MATTERS.—The Salt Lake Telegraph of October 25th, says:

A. C. Bassett, Superintendent of the Pacific Telegraph Line, returned to the city on Monday evening, after a trip to Laramie. Mr. B. left over a month ago, and traveled over the line from Bridger to Laramie, repairing and seeing to the better condition of the institution generally. We understand the company is accumulating at various stations an ample supply of material, so that injury to the wire or poles can be easier remedied than heretofore. Mr. Hogan is left in charge of the repairing department at Platte Bridge, which is a step in the right direction. A few Indians were seen by Mr. B. and company, but no trouble is expected this fall on this side of Laramie. East of that point probabilities are rather "mixed." Redskin seems to vibrate between that place and Julesburg much more at his own will than at that of others. A few days before Mr. Bassett left Laramie the Indians made an attack at Chimney rock Station, and carried off a few head of stock. Between Sunday night and Monday morning last, a Government train camped near Alkali Station, was attacked by thirty Indians, and a part of the stock was run off. The teamsters killed eight of the Indians, and the others decamped. About the same time they destroyed the telegraph line, which caused the last interruption.

A HEALTHY LOYALIST.—A man named Pendleton has been making a speech in Virginia. He was once an Old Line Whig. He had been opposed to secession. Now he wants to go to Congress. In his speech occurs this pleasant and pathetic passage:

Four Yankee Generals—Wadsworth, Morrow, Robinson and Rice—encamped on my place for five months, winter before last; and, although I don't exactly believe in special providences, the fact that three of them fell dead at the Wilderness, the day after they crossed the Rapidan, looked like a special dispensation in my behalf.

This stamps Pendleton as being about the "healthyest" loyalist we have seen yet. Send him to Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.

A correspondent who has recently visited the U. S. Arsenal, thus describes the present appearance of what he states is the sepulchre of the assassin, J. Wilkes Booth: "Entering the lower rooms of the prison, and passing through devious halls formed by piles of cartridge boxes, we came at length to a solid wall, against which was piled the same sort of ammunition, but through an aperture between the boxes, on giving to one side a heavy plank, an empty, floorless room was disclosed, in one corner of which the loosened earth indicated the burial place of the foulest assassin of time."

THE READIEST WAY TO CONVICT JEFF. DAVIS.—The speediest and surest way of reaching a conviction in the case of Jeff. Davis would be to name a Military Commission composed of ex-rebel Generals Johnston, Lee, Beauregard, Ewell, Longstreet, etc. The late head of the Confederacy could hardly be put on trial for any crime, of which his late military subordinates would not be prepared to find him guilty. This is the opinion of an ex-rebel General.—New York Times.

THE APACHES.—These Indians live on fruits and roots during the summer, and hide in the mountains where they cannot be found. In winter they must build fires or freeze, and by this they may be discovered in their strongholds. They never fight openly, but wait until they get an advantage and the first sign of their losing starts them to run. They are very skillful in their mode of warfare, and are treacherous and savage.

JOKE ON A HUSBAND.—The Bedford (Indiana) Independent says that one of the merry wives of that place played a practical joke on her husband by having their babe, a sweet little infant of six months, done up in a basket and left on the front door step, with a note informing him that he was the father of the child, and must support it. The indignant husband swore roundly that it was not his, but saw the joke finally when he found the cradle empty.

"PHILADELPHIA NEWS."—The Washington Star says:

We observe that, on an average, for every column of Philadelphia news we publish we are compelled to print about two columns of contradiction. It is about time that some intelligent and reliable contraband was placed in charge of the press news there.

At present negroes are allowed to vote in the following six States: Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, subject to the same conditions as white men; in Massachusetts they must be able to read and write; in Rhode Island, must be worth one hundred and thirty dollars in real estate; in New York, must be worth two hundred and fifty dollars over all incumbrances.

POPULAR SENTIMENT IN ALABAMA.—A letter received in Washington October 2d, from one of the agents of the Postoffice Department, dated Montgomery, Alabama, September 25th, has the following allusion to the sentiments of the people in that section:

I have talked freely with members of the recent State Convention and other important men upon State and political subjects, and have taken pains to ascertain the real sentiments of the people and their leading and influential men as regards their feelings and purposes towards the General Government, and I am satisfied that no factious opposition need be apprehended to the policy of the Government concerning the negro, or upon any other of the issues affecting the Southern restoration to Union and peace. They simply desire to resume their old relations with the Government, and to live quietly and obediently under the old flag. The radicals of the rebellion stand a poor chance of being elected to Congress. The people generally are manifesting correct views upon these subjects, and I candidly believe there is less bitterness of feeling now entertained in the South towards the people of the North than for many years preceding the war.

THE ALABAMA STATE CONVENTION—A STUPID MOVEMENT.—If we are rightly informed the Alabama reorganizing State Convention has adopted an ordinance fixing the basis of representation on the white population, leaving the blacks out entirely. Under the old slavery system three fifths of her slaves were counted in enumerating her people for representation in Congress. With the abolition of slavery there is nothing to prevent the late slave States from counting the five fifths of their blacks in their representative population. Alabama proposes to throw out all her blacks, or more than half her people, and thus to cast away fully one half the representation she might otherwise claim in Congress. This may be an honest equivalent for refusing negro suffrage, but it strikes us as a very stupid proceeding.—N. Y. Herald, Oct. 7th.

WHAT TO SAY.—An English M. P., who owned extensive estates and possessed considerable personal celebrity, was spending a few days at the residence of a noble family. There were several interesting and accomplished young ladies in the family, to whom the honorable member, as in duty bound, showed every attention. Just as he was about to take his leave, the nobleman's wife proceeded to consult him in a matter which, she alleged, was causing her no little distress. "It is reported," said the Countess, "that you are to marry my daughter L——. What shall we do? what shall we do about it?" "Oh," quietly responded the considerate M. P., "just say she refused me!"

THE GENERAL COURT MARTIAL.—The proceeding of the Military Commission at Cincinnati, before whom G. St. George Grenfel was recently tried on the charge of conspiring in the violation of the laws of war, to release the rebel prisoners confined at Camp Douglas, near Chicago, and conspiring to lay waste the city of Chicago, was promulgated by the War Department October 5th. The prisoner was found guilty and sentenced by the Commission to be hung, but in consideration of the recommendation of the members of the Court, and the success of the Government in suppressing rebellion, President Johnson commuted the sentence to imprisonment at hard labor for life at the Dry Tortugas.

ELLENDALE WOOLEN MILL.—The Company owning this new enterprise near Dallas, Polk county, have increased their capital stock to $20,000. Machinery to replace that lost on the Brother Jonathan has been sent for and it is expected that the mill will be in operation in about three months.

It is now ascertained that the net increase in the population of Rhode Island during the past five years has been between 11,000 and 12,000. The growth has been altogether in the cities and manufacturing towns, the agricultural sections having invariably shown a decline.

The Chicago Republican thinks that Congress will appropriate at least one year's salary of the President to Mrs. Lincoln. Why not four years' salary?

THE SOUTH.—General Carl Schurz, who has been on a tour through the South, says he saw no basis for immediate successful reconstruction in any State.

Farm for Sale.

IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY, FOURTEEN MILES from Oregon City and 26 miles from Portland, containing 640 acres, 100 of which are fenced and in a good state of cultivation, and a good orchard of twenty acres of the best fruit in the country. The land is half prairie and half timber. There is on it a good two story frame house, a barn and a distillery for making apple brandy nearly ready to run.

For convenience this place cannot be excelled in Oregon, being well situated, handy to mills and schools, and in a good neighborhood.

It will be sold at a price very much below its actual value. For particulars apply to F. HELMS,

ALLEN'S
LUNG BALSAM!
The Remedy for Curing
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,
Asthma, Croup,
Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus, CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"
THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS,
Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,
GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THIS ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS AT tended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS.

And in every disease having connection with the disorder or decay of the PROCREATIVE FUNCTIONS. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once braced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man, he stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom of an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active, and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor.— The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGUARY AND BURN-
ING, OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Males or Females,

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back, and through your hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.
